Inspired by nature

Selecting tiles for your home is easy with CTM's Kilimanjaro Rock range, giving you the look of natural stone with no maintenance hassles.

The vast textured beauty of the African continent is breathtaking. And much like the African landscape, natural stone lends a sophisticated, timeless appeal to your home, both inside and out. But, it also needs to be maintained. Which is why the new Kilimanjaro Rock is a must for any home. Inspired by the enduring ruggedness and arresting landscapes of Africa, this unique range of Kilimanjaro tiles afford you the exquisite look of natural stone, with none of the hassle.

Here's why:

- Kilimanjaro Rock tiles need no special sealing treatment or upkeep at all. It's a ceramic product and is completely liquid resistant. So you can entertain without worrying about spills, because your tiles won't stain or discolour.
- The highly compact, extruded Kilimanjaro Rock tile is tougher than granite, so you'll enjoy your natural look for many years to come.

From the unmistakable look of sandstone, complete with fossilised imprints, to calm shades of slate and the reassuring touch of rock, each tile is meticulously crafted, bringing you equally inspiring shades of stone that have been faithfully recreated in ceramic. You could be forgiven for thinking you're decorating with actual stone!

So now you really can have one of the most desirable and enduring looks of natural stone, without the maintenance. Just sit back and enjoy it!
